TWO STILL FOUND NEAR RIVER BANK

Sheriff and Other Officers Make Successful Raids, Get Plants and Three Men

They're still moonshining in old Madison, notwithstanding the vigorous efforts of Sheriff Elmer Deatherage and federal agents to break up the unlawful vocation.

Officers say it is exceptionally hard to locate stills at this time of the year. Dense foliage offers remarkable concealment for the illicit still and minions of the law, both state and federal, are hard put, oftentimes, to locate stills even when they have reasonable grounds to believe that such are in existence in certain localities.

Madison's vigilant sheriff and three federal agents bagged some game down on the Kentucky river Thursday, however. They went to the mouth of Silver Creek, in the Posey Ridge section, and found a still. Three men were arrested. Calvin Ward, who was found at the still, has made what might be termed practically a confession. Sheriff Deatherage says. Willie Hughes who was with him at the time, was also taken into custody, as was another man, of whose guilt the officers have considerable doubt. There were some 150 gallons of mash ready for a run, which the officers poured out. No moonshine whisky was found.

Sheriff Robinson, of Garrard county, to whom Sheriff Deatherage has given many a tip as to the location of a still in his territory, "tipped off" this still to the Madison officer and met him before the raid and accompanied him, together with his deputies, Hicks and Carter. Revenue raiders, R. E. Duff, his son, Carroll, and Beckner and Stewart accompanied the two sheriffs.

Later in the evening Sheriff Deatherage and the federal agents made a raid along the river above Valley View. Sheriff Deatherage discovered the still, himself, after the officers had separated to thoroughly comb the vicinity for the still which they felt certain was there. The still was still warm, Mr. Deatherage said, showing that it had been used for a run but the mash before. Nine barrels of mash were poured out. This still was located within 40 feet of the river, in what might be termed an ideal sight, back in a deep cove.

Sheriff Deatherage went up a hollow by himself. Before leaving his companions, he arranged with them that whoever found the still they felt certain was near, would fire two shots from his revolver. When the sheriff discovered it, he fired two shots. His companions were evidently some distance away for they did not come immediately, so to save time, he reloaded his revolver and punctured the mash barrels with a fusillade of revolver bullets.

The other officers had heard his first two shots as the signal the still was found, and started to him. Then hearing the bang-bang-bang as Deatherage riddled the still and the mash barrels, they concluded that he was engaged in a battle with the "shiners." They didn't want to miss the fun and didn't want the popular sheriff to have to do all the fighting, so they ran all the way to him, and were a hot and perspiring bunch when they finally reached him and found out just what he was doing. Just what they thought of the joke that he had played on them, momentarily, wasn't detailed in the report of the proceedings.

No men were captured at this still, but officers think they have a pretty good idea of who is responsible for its presence and operation. The officers left again Friday morning for another visit to suspected territory.

Max Oser, from Switzerland, sends a strong denial that he is seeking to marry Miss McCormick, of Chicago, because of her great wealth.

SHERIFF REMOVED FOR JOINING KLAN

(By Associated Press)

Beaumont, Texas, June 9.—Tom Garner, sheriff of Jefferson county, was found guilty of official misconduct and ordered removed from office in an instructed verdict returned by a jury in the district court here today. The court said the sheriff contravened his oath of office when he became a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

AGREED SUIT TO TEST TAX LAWS

Frankfort, Ky., June 9.—An agreed suit to test the constitutionality of the tax laws giving the State Tax Commission power to order reassessments will be filed if the question can be decided by the Court of Appeals before it adjourns June 23 for the summer vacation. This conclusion was reached here Thursday at a conference between Attorney General Charles I. Dawson, Judge Rainey T. Wells, chairman and L. R. Davis, member of the commission, and Attorney George R. Webb, George C. Hunt and Rodman Keenan, the latter representing Spence Carrick, county judge of Fayette county.

Immediately after the conference the attorneys returned to Lexington to prepare a tentative suit, which will be submitted tomorrow to Dawson and the State Tax Commission. One member of the commission, J. A. Scott, is out of town and Judge Wells got in telephone communication with him, asking that he be here tomorrow in order that the whole commission may sit in finally disposing of the matter.

It is impossible to get the case decided by the Appellate Court before it adjourns, the Tax Commission and the attorney general will not agree to a suit, according to Judge Wells, who stated, following the conference, that the commission will keep Fayette county out of her revenue for one year. When the Court of Appeals adjourns the latter part of the month it will not meet again until the middle of September.

In case the suit is not agreed to, the reassessment of the taxable property of Fayette county on a 100 per cent basis of its fair cash value will be started immediately under the direction of Judge Wells, who will be aided by Field Workers Leon F. Smith, Fred P. Shields, Dave Noble, William Wilson, H. M. Creelins and S. W. Wright.

Contractor Killed By Fall From Scaffold

Verailes, Ky., June 9.—Porter Singleton, 62, leading contractor, was killed instantly Thursday when he fell from the top of the house he was building, a distance of 26 feet, breaking his neck. It is thought Mr. Singleton first suffered from a sinking spell, lost his balance, falling on his elbows on the rafters and then headlong to the ground below, death resulting instantly.

FITTING CLOSE TO FINE YEAR'S WORK

Commencement of Madison High School Witnessed By Big Crowd Thursday Eve

On Thursday evening at the First Christian church were held the beautiful commencement exercises of the Madison High School, which made an appropriate climax for the many enjoyable features of the week.

It was certainly a pleasing and inspiring sight, when the large class, clad in their new dresses and suits, filled the pulpit, up to the flowers and ferns in front and back to the splendid chorus of girls who were all dressed in white.

The invocation was given by Rev. Homer W. Carpenter in his usual excellent way. Lafon Wilson, the class representative, proved a worthy choice for the talented class of 1922 and received the closest attention from the audience. "Watchman, What of the Night?" was the subject of his speech, which was an earnest plea for a higher development of the mind, body and heart of the American youth.

Then in a conversational style Prof. L. S. Dantzer, of the University of Kentucky, delivered the commencement address. Of the many good things he said, the most striking was the following: "Athens with her marvelous development of art, beauty and poetry, carried the torch of civilization for a long time, then she passed it to Rome, the proud mistress of the world; Rome next passed it to the strong, young nations of western Europe, who in turn passed it to England, where it now is ready to be given over to the last hope of the white race, to the United States. The challenge, therefore, comes to our nation to prove by superior statesmanship, by the production of a higher order of art, music, poetry and education that we are worthy to become the proud torch bearer of the civilization of the world."

The high school chorus sang several delightful songs and were so attractive with their beaming faces and white costumes that they added much to the beautiful program.

In a few appropriate and eloquent words Supt. John Howard Payne presented the diplomas to the class. In addition to the other things he said, the most impressive was: "The school tonight declares a dividend on the money invested in education in Richmond." Then turning to the large class he said "This is your dividend and who is able to put an estimate in money on this fine looking and intelligent class with their infinite possibilities lying out before them?"

Dr. O. Green pronounced the benediction which brought to a close an interesting, delightful, uplifting program and a successful year's work.

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., June 9.—A boy giving the name of Luther Dean, 18, of Lexington, was placed in jail here early today after the body of a white man, said to be Will Curry, was found in a park at Lexington. Dean at first claimed, according to the police, that Curry was killed in an automobile accident at Lexington.

CENTRE FOOTBALL BOYS GET IN BAD

The Shelbyville Record says: Several members of the Centre College football team who engaged in a game between the local American Legion team and the team representing Pleasureville, are reported to have been given a professional rating and to have been declared ineligible to any further college games.

The Pleasureville management secured the college players for the game and hid them away in a barn until time for the fracas to begin. The local team played well, but was outclassed by the outfit that Pleasureville had gathered. Several of the men who are in trouble with the Centre College authorities were here Tuesday in an endeavor to gather evidence to support their side of the case.

LENINE IN VERY SERIOUS CONDITION

(By Associated Press)

London, June 9.—From sources which cannot be doubted, it is learned Premier Lenine's condition up to a few days ago was regarded at Moscow as critical and probably hopeless. These advices state Lenine has suffered a stroke of cerebral paralysis. He lost his speech entirely June 1st and those about him expected the end could not be prolonged beyond a few weeks. No mention of the gravity of Lenine's case is made in Moscow.

WHAT BOY'D KILL A DOG FOR A QUARTER

Emporia, Kan., June 9.—A boy who would take a stray dog to the city pound to be killed for a quarter is too mean to live himself, declares William Allen White, author and editor, in a statement in his paper, the Emporia Gazette.

Mr. White's protest in behalf of the dogs was evoked by an offer of 25 cents a head for dogs brought to the city pound by boys. "What's the matter with this city administration, anyway?" inquired the Kansas editor. "Were they never boys? Here they are advertising to give boys 25 cents for each stray dog brought into the city pound to be killed."

"Doesn't the city administration know that the boy who would deliberately bring a stray dog to the city pound to be killed for two bits ought to be killed himself?"

"Don't they know that boys are not so hard-hearted? Don't they know that the average boy would rather earn two bits moving a lawn with a straight string of boys marching by him to the swimming hole rather than see a stray dog killed?"

"The advertisement had in it the meanest inference about Emporia boys that has ever been made. Think of the kind of a boy who values a quarter above the life of a dog—a stray dog—any dog on earth."

New Law On Truck Mirrors

Under a new law which becomes effective June 13 every "commercial motor vehicle" of more than one-half ton capacity—in other words, practically every truck operated in the state—is required to be equipped with a mirror or reflector attached so that the driver will have at all times a view of the road at the rear on a line parallel to the side of his truck. The object of this law was to enable drivers of trucks which frequently make sufficient noise to drown out the sound of horns of approaching motorists to get a view of smaller vehicles which wish to pass him. All dealers are required to equip trucks sold with mirrors. Driving a truck without a mirror or selling one not equipped with a mirror, is made a misdemeanor and is punishable with a fine of not more than $100.

PRINCETON BATTLE MONUMENT DONE

Harding Pays Tribute To Brilliance of George Washington
In Address

(By Associated Press)

Princeton, N. J., June 9.—The brilliancy of General Washington's genius in action and the devotion of his followers of the Continental Army under great privations were extolled by President Harding today in an address at the dedication of the battle monument at Princeton. The memorial was fitting to the heroes and heroism of that day, he declared, adding that "we bring and lay at its foot the laurels which gratitude and patriotic sentiment will always dedicate to those who have borne the heat and burden of the conflict."

The Princeton Battle Monument commemorating the battle of Princeton, is from the hand of F. W. MacMonnies, of New York, who created the much discussed Civic Virtue statue in front of the New York City Hall. He has been working on it since 1908, the period of the war excepted. It is located on Nassau Street, in front of the old Princeton Inn, and was erected by the Princeton Battle Monument Committee, which raised $300,000 for the purpose.

The memorial is a large relief with General Washington as the main figure, thus combining the ideas of the heroic, of fame and of victory. It represents Washington at the Battle of Princeton, January 3, 1777, watching his men as they retreat. General Mercer, who was killed in the battle, lies dying at his feet. The lower part of the monument consists of several minor figures portraying several forms of heroism under difficult circumstances of the battle. Dr. P. S. Grant, of New York, posed for General Mercer; Dr. Allen Marquard for the soldier who is rushing forward, and Charles Dana Gibson, the illustrator, for the figure of the soldier who is supporting the fallen general.

Preliminary Details

(By Associated Press)

Princeton, N. J., June 9.—President Harding came here today to dedicate the Princeton Battle Monument behind a squadron of cavalry and over a road flanked by artillery. The president was taken directly to the speaking stand and directly upon his arrival, Bayard Stockton, a descendant of a Declaration of Independence signer, pulled back a great flag which draped the sculpture commemorating the exploits of George Washington in leading the Continental Army in the Princeton-Trenton campaign against the British. After other brief preliminaries in the dedication ceremony the president delivered his address.
